Rethinking the office

Yesterday the conference room ;-) today the Work Café

Nothing can be achieved without talking to each other. Effective communication is the secret of successful companies. That is not only true for classic conferences, but for any variety of communication. From the foyer, via the lounge and the meeting point to the project room, multimedia and training room, we call it Work Café.

The Interpretation of Classic – representative and functional

In spite of all the flexibility many companies still need classic (permanent) conference areas, for regular, larger meetings.

In this case, importance is more likely to be attached to representative appearance. Of course, the integration of new technologies and equipment must get its fair share. In formal conferences, it's the people, who are expected to be flexible, more so than the furniture. But it is the furnishings that create the prerequisites for a successful meeting, just as light and ambience contribute their share.

FlipTop

The multi-talent FlipTop is available in various top shapes and lengths for different table configurations. When stored, the FlipTop needs just 13.5 centimeters (plus leg).

Hopper

The Hopper serves as a tray or writing desk, has a hook for bags, an inset pen-groove, and the height may be adjusted from 72 to 110 centimeters as desired. Its optimal companion is the Kart.

Talk to each other – Wherever you want

Communication is possible everywhere. And sometimes it is especially fruitful, if it is completely spontaneous:

for example, in the lounge or in the foyer, or on the stairwell. For this purpose, standing-height tables create an inspiring atmosphere for exchanging ideas or for brief brainstorming sessions.

It's easy when you know how

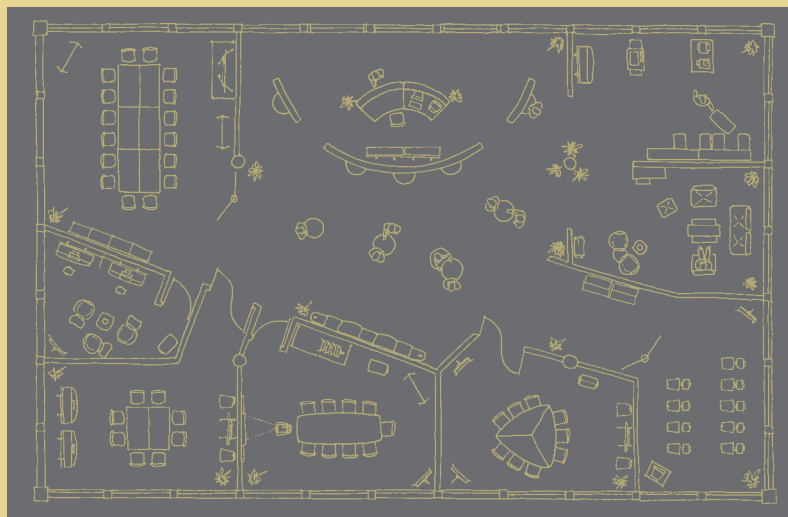

You work with videoconferencing; you need multifunctional team, project, or training areas.

A representative conference room is definitely needed?

We would love to help you plan your own meeting areas in accordance with the principles of the Werndl Work Café. During the process, we take into account for example the number and kind of people wishing to use a particular area, how often they use them, the type of meetings and how much technology is required.

We take into consideration the dimensions of the conference area, the shape of the room, the light conditions, acoustics, climate, the optimal furnishing solutions and the required integration of technology. In other words, any aspect, which may influence the success of your meeting.

Planning Checklist

Acoustics

Cushioning is important for closed meeting rooms. Less so in TouchDown areas or Cafés. Mobile or modular walls meet the requirements of both.

Lighting

Lighting should be consistent, without glare, and you should be able to dim it for presentations. Avoid rooms facing south with direct sunlight.

Media Technology

Meeting areas must offer easy access to the information and communication infrastructure and enable the use of presentation tools.

Modular Furnishings

Furnishings should be dynamic and mobile so that the area can be used in a multifunctional manner, and digital media technology can be employed.

Materials

Warm colours can stimulate creative interaction. Neutral colours create a calmer atmosphere in more formal areas.

Climate

Concentration requires a pleasant, even room temperature.

Modular Walls

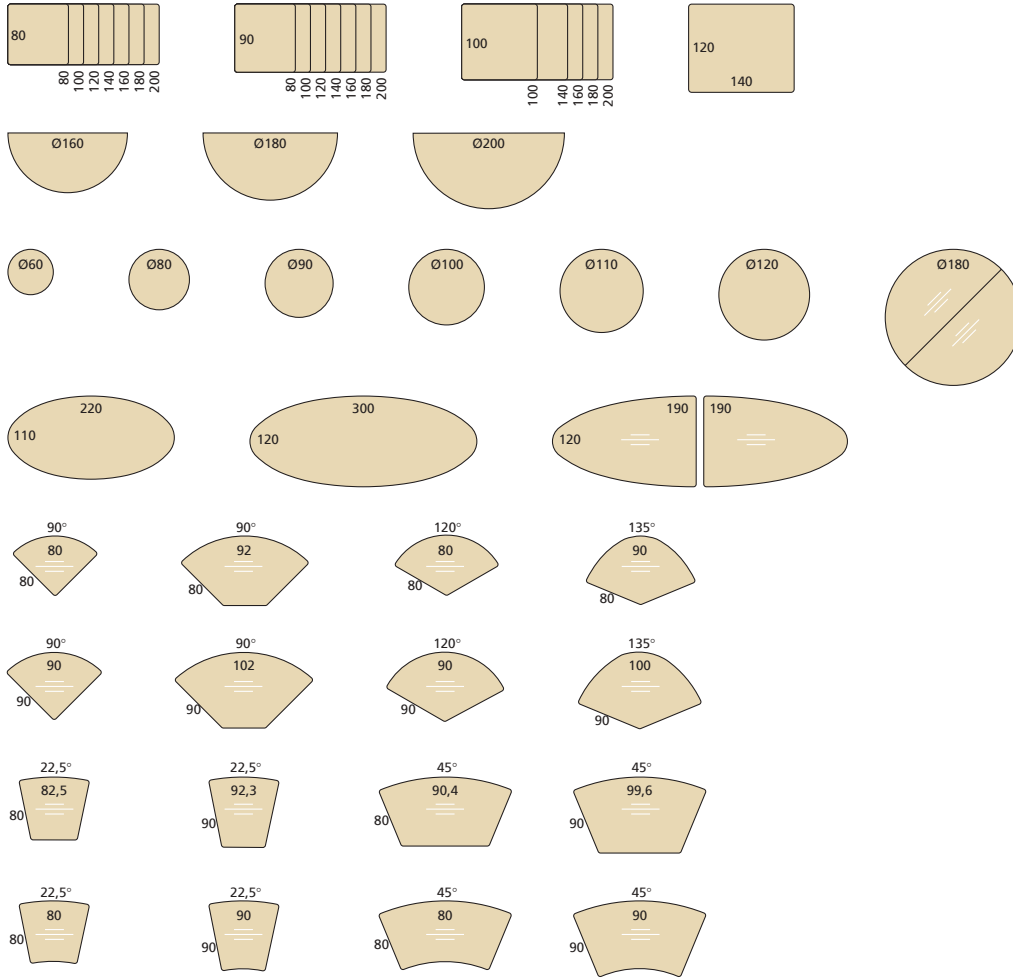

With modular walls, meeting areas and technology can be used in a flexible manner. As a result, acoustics and protective screens can be controlled according to requirement.
